Richly illustrated with images from the collections of New College Library, Oxford, Lambeth Palace Library, the Venerable English College, Rome, and other renowned collections from across the world, our ten-chapter book, written by distinguished Reformation and Counter-Reformation scholars, places Cardinal Reginald Pole (1500–1558)—England’s last Catholic Archbishop of Canterbury—in the context of his turbulent times. Reformation Cardinal provides a fresh and invaluable account of this complex and charismatic character, who has been—all too often—unfairly portrayed as someone who was on the wrong side of history.
